To whom it may concern,

I am writing to inquire about the Software Engineering Internship for Overwatch at Blizzard Entertainment. As a second-year student at the University of California, San Diego, I feel my academic background and extracurricular interests provide an excellent profile for the internship.

My academic background has provided me ample opportunities and experiences to learn and develop software. Alongside my other extracurricular experiences in game and web design, I believe I will be an asset to your team. My two past internships also have provided me with professional working experiences unable to be taught through a classroom or research. For example, the intranet remodeling and current web maintenance at the California Institute of Biomedical Research has given me ample experience as a full-stack developer. I believe my work experience, in conjunction with my extracurricular programming interests and academic experience makes me qualified for the internship position.

I would be extremely grateful for an opportunity to interview. I will follow up in a week for a confirmation. Thank you for your consideration and time. I look forward to any potential opportunities.

Sincerely,

Thomas Tran
